Introduction

This book is an educational study of the Prohibition of Zina as presented in the Quran. The primary source is the Quran; where Hadith, classical fiqh, or history (including the hudud-registers, the schools' derived-positions, and the tradition's preserved cases) is referenced, it is drawn from established sources and clearly indicated. English translations of Quranic verses are interpretive and should be cross-referenced with the original Arabic text.

This work is a study and reflection, not a fatwa and not a substitute for formal Islamic education. The punishment-files are read as scripture and legal-history; the mercy-gate (39:53, 3:135, 25:70) stands at every chapter's edge; personal cases belong with qualified scholars — and with the Rahman, whose door the Book itself says never closes.

Chapter 1: The Prohibition-Anchors — The Approach-Grammar

17:32 legislates the whole preventive-architecture in one verb: "And do not approach zina — indeed it is an indecency and an evil way" — the la taqarrabu-file (the approach-prohibition: the fence built at the road's own first-mile, and the scholars' standing-synthesis at the verb's own chosen-geography, labeled): the Book prohibits the nearness itself (the gaze-economy of 24:30, the seclusion-economy of the tradition's own preventive-case, labeled, the solitude-economy and the temptation-registers — the whole later fiqh's preventive-architecture reading its own first-permit at the one verb's own distance-grammar), with the diagnosis-register delivered in the same breath: the fahishah-name (the indecency: the Book's own value-word for the deed — the shame-register named, never minimized), and the sa'a-sabil-name (the evil way: the path-word — the deed legislated as a road before it is an act, the whole geography-grammar the fence-verb itself completes), and the chapter's one-line summary at the anchor's own honest-scale: the Book fences the way, names the way, and the whole restraint-economy begins at the verb's own first-step.

The same prohibition stands in the Book's own covenant-file: "Say: come, I will recite what your Lord has sacredly commanded you: that you associate nothing with Him, and be good to parents... and do not approach zina — He has commanded you" (6:151) — the prohibition named among the seven-pillars (the tawhid, the parents, the innocent-life, the orphans' property, the honest-measure, and the zina-file: the Book's own ten-commandment-register, and the standing-note at the placement, labeled): the chastity-legislation filed at the covenant's own scale — never a private-morality-footnote, always a civilization-pillar — with the whole library's cross-registers standing at the placement (the Modesty volume's own whole-file and the Purity volume's guard-economy reading their own shared-anchor at the same clause), and the chapter's closing-grammar at the covenant's own honest-scale: the Book puts the guarded-door among the seven-things the civilization itself is commanded to keep.

The fence-verb's own derived-architecture receives the tradition's preventive-case-law (all labeled): the seclusion-file (labeled: the famous instruction — "no man is alone with a woman but the third of them is the shaytan" — the tradition's preserved-wording at the solitude-register), the touch-file (labeled: the Prophet's own counsel at the written-communication-case — "it is better for one of you that an iron-needle be driven through his head" — the preserved-register's own severity-grammar, reported as the labeled-kept-file it is), and the whole preventive-architecture read at the scholars' standing-synthesis (labeled): the Book's fence-verb (17:32's approach-grammar) is the root; the Sunnah's preventive-cases are the labeled-branches; and the fiqh's whole khalwah-case-law (labeled: the schools' positions on the seclusion-economy's boundaries) stands at the root's own first-logic — the whole chapter's honest-close: the Book fences the road at the first-mile because the destination's own door was never the war-zone; the road was — and the road's own standing-name in the whole file is the verb itself: approach.

The ifk-passage's own innocence-economy deserves the honest-standalone (labeled): "why, when you heard it, did the believing men and women not think good of themselves and say: this is a clear lie?" — the husn-zann-file (the good-assumption commanded as the community's own first-response at the rumor's own first-hour: the Book modeling the innocence-presumption the Governance volume reads at the court-scale, applied here at the majlis-scale), with the scholars' standing-note at the passage's own grammar (labeled): the Book asks why the good-thought did not happen — the community's own inner-economy itself the file's own first-fence (the assumption-register standing before the evidence-register, and both before the tongue-register), and the whole assumption-file read at the chapter's honest-scale: the Book's own question at the gossip's door ("why did you not think good?") is the whole preventive-architecture's own deepest-floor — the road's own first-mile is not the eye; it is the ear's own first-thought, and the file's one-line summary at the assumption- economy: guard the thought, and the tongue and the eye guard themselves.

The six-151 placement deserves the honest-cross-file (labeled): the zina-clause standing among the covenant's own seven (the tawhid, the parents, the innocent-life, the orphan-property, the honest-measure, the zina-file, and the justice-clause at 6:152's own tail) — the scholars' standing-note at the whole-file's architecture (labeled): the chastity-clause is the only purely-personal-morality item in the seven — and the placement's own honest-theology: the Book files the private-act at the civilization's own covenant-table because the act's own ripples are public (the family-file, the lineage-economy, the trust-architecture the whole-community stands on — the Marriage and Inheritance volumes' own whole-registers standing at the clause's own downstream), and the chapter's one-line summary at the covenant-scale: the zina-file is covenant-legislation because the door's own keeping is civilization's own keeping — the private-door and the public-wall in one clause, and the reader's own standing-audit at the placement's honest-scale: the Book never legislated a private-morality; it legislated a house.

The second guard-passage deserves its own honest-standing (labeled): "and those who guard their chastity except from their spouses or what their right hands possess — for then they are not blamed; but whoever seeks beyond that — they are the transgressors" (70:29-31) — the same three-clause-architecture delivered at the Makkah-register (the scholars' standing-note at the pair's own placement-geography, labeled): the 23-file at the Madinan success-portrait, the 70-file at the Makkan ascent-portrait — the same-door-grammar at the two-revelation-epochs and the two-community-climates (the guard-economy legislated at the founding's own both-weathers: the established-city and the persecuted-remnant), with the whole-pair-architecture read at the chapter's honest-scale: the Book legislates the chastity-door twice, at two-epochs, in the same-grammar — the door-definition itself among the few-files delivered at the revelation's own whole-arc (never a one-context-concession: the covenant's own standing-architecture), and the one-line summary at the whole-pair-economy: the guarded-door is a both-epoch-file — legislated at the city and the cave, the success and the ascent — and the reader's own standing-note at the pair's own honest-grammar: the door's own Book-name is constancy, and constancy's own whole-register is the two-verses' own one-shape.
